Other Related Cases

Related Clackamas County matters include the Julio Cortez protective-order / VAWA lease-bifurcation dispute, prior EPPDAPA/protective-order filings involving Ashley Ferron in her official HACC capacity, and Clackamas County Justice Court eviction case 26FE0586. Petitioners understand prior Ashley Ferron petitions were denied and reference them only as background and pattern.

Incidents Of Abuse Within 180 Days

1. In March and April 2026, while Petitioners were trying to complete relocation and port a Tenant Protection Voucher to Multnomah County, Respondent Kati Tilton handled or materially participated in HACC communications and administration of the voucher, orientation, relocation paperwork, and housing process.

2. HACC nevertheless pursued or allowed an eviction/possession process before Petitioners' relocation and voucher process was complete. Petitioners contend this threatens wrongful taking or loss of housing, leasehold, voucher, relocation, subsidy, occupancy, and possessory rights.
3. Jane Cortez is in imminent danger of significant physical and emotional harm if locked out or displaced before relocation is complete. She is 72, disabled, and depends on stable housing, disability accommodations, and Benjamin Barber's assistance.
4. Federal relocation law and HUD rules require actual relocation protections, comparable housing, and voucher timing protections before displacement. Petitioners contend HACC is treating unfinished voucher paperwork or an unfinished housing search as completed relocation.
5. Petitioners allege that Respondent's conduct, in her official HACC role, is part of a continuing policy or practice of willful disregard of federal housing law, including VAWA protections, disability accommodation duties, and federal relocation/voucher duties.

VAWA / Lease-Removal Background

6. In late 2025 and early 2026, Petitioners raised abuse-related safety issues involving Julio Cortez and sought VAWA-related lease bifurcation or protection. Repository records reflect that a Julio-related protective order existed by November 2025 and that HACC was repeatedly placed on notice of household-composition and restraining-order issues.
7. Petitioners allege that despite the restraining-order and VAWA context, HACC unlawfully removed Benjamin Barber from the lease and treated Julio Cortez as restored to or still part of the household. Petitioners contend that this penalized the protected side of the household rather than isolating the alleged perpetrator, contrary to VAWA's anti-penalization and lease-bifurcation protections.
8. HACC records and repository timelines reflect that HACC generated or relied on lease-side paperwork effective January 1, 2026; on January 12, 2026 HACC still wrote that Julio was a household member unless court documentation was submitted; and by January 27, 2026 HACC treated the household as reduced to one-bedroom voucher eligibility.
9. Jane Cortez has declared that during the March 23, 2026 HUD NSPIRE inspection she heard HACC staff state, in substance, that Benjamin had been taken off the lease because Benjamin's brother and stepfather had been emailing documents to HACC and that HACC associated the delay or non-move with sorting through those materials.
10. Petitioners previously filed EPPDAPA/protective-order matters naming Ashley Ferron in her official HACC capacity. Repository materials reflect those petitions were denied, and contemporaneous notes indicate the court may have viewed the housing-administration issues as better addressed elsewhere. Petitioners reference those filings here as background and pattern, not as proof that the prior petitions were granted.

Immediate And Present Danger

11. The danger is immediate because eviction, lockout, or loss of possession would occur before the federal relocation and voucher process is adjudicated or completed.
12. If Petitioners are displaced now, Jane Cortez may lose stable housing, access to necessary disability accommodations, access to caregiver support, and the practical ability to complete the Multnomah County voucher port. The resulting harm is not only economic; it threatens significant physical and emotional harm to an elderly disabled person.
13. Respondent should be restrained from abusing, intimidating, interfering with, menacing, or causing displacement of Petitioners through HACC actions that wrongfully take or threaten Petitioners' housing, voucher, relocation, subsidy, occupancy, or possessory property rights.

Requested Relief

14. Order Respondent not to abuse, intimidate, molest, interfere with, or menace Petitioners.

15. Order Respondent not to cause, authorize, request, coordinate, or enforce displacement, lockout, eviction trespass, lease removal, loss of subsidy, loss of voucher, or loss of relocation rights against Petitioners while the federal relocation/voucher issues remain unresolved, except through lawful court proceedings after compliance with all applicable federal protections.
16. Order Respondent not to exercise control over Petitioners' housing, lease, voucher, relocation, subsidy, occupancy, or possessory rights in a manner inconsistent with federal relocation law, VAWA, disability-accommodation requirements, or any court stay or protective order.
17. Order Respondent to preserve all HACC records concerning Petitioners' lease composition, household status, VAWA/bifurcation requests, restraining-order documents, Tenant Protection Voucher, portability to Multnomah County, emergency-transfer issues, reasonable accommodations, and eviction/possession actions.
18. Grant any other relief necessary for the safety and welfare of Jane Cortez and Benjamin Barber under ORS 124.020.
